

Families Who Need The New School

This is Bianca with her older brother and their father, the local "trash guy"

While the workmen are busy preparing the new preschool, we want to share with you children who need to attend the new school.

Pictured above is Bianca and her family. She is hoping to begin Preschool 1 in September. Her father was one of the first parents to bring his child to registration. However, he cannot afford to pay the tuition. In Cazeau he is known as the "trash guy." He sifts through discarded tin and aluminum and sells whatever he can find. His meager income is not enough to take care of his family and at the same time send his daughter to school.

Pictured below is Walens and his grandmother. Walens and his parents were living in Cite Soleil, arguably the worst slum in Haiti. It is also a haven for gang members. When his father was killed by a stray bullit, his mother had a nervous breakdown. She sent Walens to live with his grandmother.

It so happens that the grandmother lives down the street from the new preschool. She registered Walens for the new preschool in hopes that someone will sponsor him.

On the back of this newsletter are pictures of children who are waiting to be sponsored just like Walens and Bianca.

These children's pictures and profiles are posted on our website. They are ready to sponsor. They want to go to school but their families need help. If you already sponsor, please share this with your family and friends. Our desire is to have each classroom filled on the first day of school.

Food Distributions In Gang Territory

In May, the food distributions continued at the Beudet church and school. Since last year, the community of Beudet and the town of Croix des Bouquets saw an increase in gang activity. The police fought the gangs, but eventually the gangs overpowered them. The police had to abandon the area.

Today, the gangs control the region east of Port au Prince and life there is hard. Our sponsorship crew has found a way to enter and operate unharmed.

In May, our crew gave 200 family packages of food at Beudet. Our other churches and schools deeper in that region desperately need help too. Our crew is ready to move, but we need your help to buy more food.

Church families received food

Beudet school children receive large bags of rice and beans to bring home. Everyone was so happy.
